The Atlantic Coast Pipeline project is wrong in so many ways:

-its construction and presence would ironically further degrade many natural land and water areas in our state that are already reeling from the impacts of climate change

-lowering the cost of fossil fuels is NOT how we need to invest, since it would reduce the feasibility of the sustainable alternatives, notably solar and wind

-pipelines for fossil fuels have already proven themselves to be vulnerable to maintenance- and sabotage-related damage, causing massive releases, pollution, and explosions

I urge you to stand with us, as one of the few viable leaders in our state, AGAINST this project. I can assure you, you will gain lots of cooperative congressional colleagues at the state level after the next round of elections.

Timothy Birthisel, Asheville
